V. Scientific Program

Free admission to all scientific events applies to all registered participants.

Please mark your non obligatory choice of lectures you intend to visit. Your name will be published on the web page in the list of preliminary participants of the respective event. This selection does not commit the participant to attend chosen program. It helps the organizers with planning the room capacity only.

Invited Discourses

- ID1 Jill Tarter – The Evolution of Life in the Universe
- ID2 Alan Title – The Magnetic Field and its Effects on the Solar Atmosphere as Observed at High Resolution
- ID3 Shuang Nan Zhang – Similar phenomena at different scales: Black Holes, Sun, Supernovae, Galaxies and Galaxy Clusters
- ID4 Reinhard Genzel – The power of new experimental techniques in astronomy: Zooming in on the black hole in the Center of the Milky Way

Symposia

- S235 Galaxy Evolution across the Hubble Time
- S236 Near Earth Objects, our Celestial Neighbors: Opportunity and Risk
